

Roda da Fortuna

Journal of Medieval Studies

Guidelines for publication

The articles should be sent in the format “document for Word” (.doc) in Portuguese, Spanish, Catalan, English, Italian or French, between 12 and 25 pages (without bibliography), type in Garamond 13, simple space, justified and upper and side margins 3 cm.

In the first line the title of the article should be mentioned, centered and in bold, first in the language of article, and then in another language.

Beneath the title of the article, in the second line to the right, the author’s full name, his/her professional qualification, institution, e-mail contact (optional), and any other relevant information should be stated.

The third line should be the abstract of 10 lines maximum, followed by three keywords. And then should appear the abstract in another language.

Note: the article written in Portuguese should present an abstract written in English.

The text should start at the fourth line.

The alignment of the paragraphs should be justified without indents both left and right, and spaced “simple” between paragraphs. The first line of each paragraph should have an indent of 1.0 cm.

The citations in the text should be done with the author’s name, followed by the year of publication and the page. Example: (García Fitz, 1998: 50).

Citations up to three lines will be included in the text in quotation marks. Citations which exceed three lines should be highlighted in the text, size 11, single space and should have an indent of 4.0 cm from left.

Footnotes should only be explanatory. They will be set in size 10 and numbered in Arabic numerals.

The images in the text should be in JPEG or JPG, with publishing credits and indicating their exact position within the text. Tables and graphs inserted in the text should indicate the authorship.

The bibliographical references according Harvard style should come at the end of the text. Example:

Articles:

Classen, C. J. (1988). Tacitus: Historian between Republic and Principate. Mnemosyne, 41, 93-116.

Macedo, J. R. (2009). Os estudos de história medieval no Brasil: tendências e perspectivas. Notandum (USP), 21, 95-104.

Book chapters:

Boyer, R. (1997). Os mitos escandinavos. In: Brunel, P. (org.). Dicionário de mitos literários (pp. 703-706). Rio de Janeiro: José Olympio.

Nelson, J. (1997). The Frankish Empire. In: Sawyer, P. (ed.). The Oxford Illustrated History of the Vikings (pp. 19-47). Oxford: Oxford University Press.

Primary Sources:

Herodotus (1963). Histoires. Paris: Les Belles Lettres.

Isidoro de Sevilla (2004). Etimologías. Madrid: Biblioteca de Autores Cristianos.

Books:

García Fitz, F. (1998). Ejércitos y actividades guerreras en la Edad Media europea. Madrid: Arco libros.

Geary, P. J. (2002). The Myth of Nations. The Medieval Origins of Europe. Princeton: Princeton University Press.

The Revista Roda da Fortuna publishes two issues per year, and the articles are reviewed by peer-reviewers of the Editorial Board and by invited peer-reviewers ad hoc each semester. The review is double blind. In case of a positive review and a negative review, the text will be sent to a third peer.

Before submitting the article, the author must fill in and send the Declaration of originality-exclusivity available in our website: <https://www.revistarodadafortuna.com/guidelines-for-publication>

After a thorough spelling check, the article should be sent by e-mail to the Journal: revistarodadafortuna@gmail.com

Please indicate in the e-mail if your submission is for “thematic dossier” or “other themes”.

The Roda da Fortuna Journal accepts articles only by PhD students and PhDs. Furthermore, we do not publish texts submitted by PhD students in co-authoring with their supervisors. Authors who have already published in Roda da Fortuna should wait two years to submit a new article, including dossier coordinators.

We only accept original papers, i.e., that have not been previously published in any format (print, CD-ROM, on-line...). However, if the text is a translation, in this case should be highlighted the address of the original with the authorization. The texts from oral presentations (conferences, colloquia, etc...) will be accept only if not published yet.

The article that does not follow the guidelines for publication will be refused automatically, and will only be reviewed if the author corrects it and sends it again during the deadline. The guideline for publication is available in the file “Article Example”, available in: <https://www.revistarodadafortuna.com/guidelines-for-publication>

The articles submitted after the deadline will only be reviewed in the next call for papers.

Reviews should follow the same standards, not exceeding 3 to 5 pages; they should refer to works published in the last three years.

The Roda da Fortuna Journal also accepts interviews and translations of historical documents, which should follow the same guidelines for publication and present at least 8 pages. In this case, the translations should be presented side by side the original text, which will only be published with the authorization of the author/editor of the same.

Authors are responsible for correct spelling and grammar of the text. Furthermore, the content of the publications – including the usage of images in articles and references – is sole responsibility of the authors. When submitting an article with images, the author must also send an authorization to publish them.

The Roda da Fortuna is not for profit, the copyright of published articles belongs to their authors who will not receive any form of remuneration. When sending the article, the author is accepting these conditions.

Each semester, the editorial board of the Roda da Fortuna will have the final decision about the publishing or not of the articles reviewed, whether from thematic dossiers or open themes. The peer-reviewers have the right to anonymity throughout the reviewing process of the articles.

For any further questions concerning the rules for publication, please contact us:
revistarodadafortuna@gmail.com

Sincerely,

Editorial Board Revista Roda da Fortuna